Nuclear Power Seen As Pollution Fighter

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress has been given a chilling account of potential disaster from air and water pollution if conventional methods are used to satisfy the nation's growing hunger for electrical power.

May Bolster Position
The testimony, compiled by the Joint Committee on Atomic Energy, is expected to bolster the committee's position that nuclear power, despite drawbacks, is the nation's best bet for the least pollution in meeting future energy needs.

Witness after witness told the committee:

—America's atmosphere already is fouled by choking clouds of sulphur spewed into the air by coal- and oil-fired generating plants.
—Rivers, lakes, even the sea—none are immune from the life-killing effects of thermal pollution resulting from discharge of heated liquids into the water by steam and nuclear generators.

—Even the power dams once believed to be the cleanest of all instruments for producing electricity now are believed to damage the water that spills over them by raising its nitrogen content to levels incompatible with aquatic life.

Testimony Released
The testimony was presented at hearings late last year and released by the committee today. A second series of hearings is scheduled later this month. The testimony came as scientists and conservationists raise more and more objections to side effects of electrical generation. Government and private experts predict U.S. demands for electricity will nearly treble by 1990, and double once again by the year 2000.

Attacks are being made on all types of electric generating plants by environmentalists, acknowledged Rep. Chet Holifield, chairman of the committee, when the hearings opened.

But the California Democrat stated bluntly he takes little stock in objections to nuclear power plants. The business of his committee, Holifield said, "is to encourage development of nuclear electric generating plants."

Can Overcome Drawbacks
And witnesses, from Presidential Science Advisor Dr. Lee A. DuBridge and Atomic Energy Commission Chairman Dr. Glenn T. Seaborg on down, did not disappoint him.

Both acknowledged nuclear generation has drawbacks, but contended man has the technological know-how to overcome them. Thermal pollution, common to conventional as well as nuclear generating facilities, can be reduced, according to the testimony, by cooling waste water in ponds or towers before returning it to the river, lake or ocean from which it was taken.

Another solution is use of a dry cooling tower, which circulates water through a reactor much in the manner of an automobile radiator.

'Combat Fatigue' Slows Militants

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Chancellor Roger W. Heyns of the University of California's Berkeley complex, who has had his share of campus confrontations, says the student militants across the land seem to be running out of steam.

Climax Reached
A long series of disorders at Berkeley reached a climax last May in a row over the use of university land as a "People's Park." It left one dead, one blinded and hundreds injured, tear-gassed or in jail.

"A lot of people have been waiting for the other shoe to drop here," Heyns said Monday in an interview. "Even if it does, it won't be a very big shoe."

"Combat fatigue is certainly part of the theory to explain this peace, but there is also a general sense that the tactics of confrontation are counter-productive, and that positive things have happened with lots of people working very hard and constructively."

Splits In Ranks
There is keen awareness that student disruption does invite external intervention which has corrosive effects."

Heyns added that the radical left student movement was weakened by splits in its ranks. "I think students are growing more sophisticated and that the university administration is more sensitive to students," he said. Heyns denied that he plans to resign, a persistent rumor since he left on a recent three-month leave. Heyns, 52, took his present post four years ago after serving as vice president at the University of Michigan.

Presidents Quitting
Heyns said university presidencies across the nation are vacant because of growing pressures from both the conservatives and radicals. "There is a constant need for the university administrator to define the middle position. The threats to inquiry are real and the decision the administrator makes will not always be popular," he said.

Heyns said he was optimistic, however, about the future of higher education. "The Congress, the legislature and President Nixon have all indicated a willingness to let the institutions solve their own problems," he said.

Morale Higher Now
Heyns said Berkeley faculty morale was higher now and "through all of the disruptions during the past five years we have gone on with achievements in the continuance of instruction."

He added: "The Berkeley campus had to turn away 2,700 students this quarter and a nice irony was that I received telephone calls from legislators asking help in entering their nieces, nephews and children. These are the same legislators who said they would never send their children to Berkeley."

Biafrans Get Amnesty Offer From Nigerians

LAGOS (AP) — Nigeria's chief of state, Maj. Gen. Yakubu Gowon, accepted Biafra's surrender at midnight Monday, promised a general amnesty and called for talks to work out terms.

Relief Plans Set
European and American relief plans to aid an estimated four million hungry Ibos and other tribesmen in the vanquished state awaited approval by the Nigerians. A top Nigerian official said the government has all the food needed, the problem is getting it to the hungry.

Reception centers were being established to care for the millions of refugees expected to pour out of the bush.

Gowon made his announcement in a 10-minute broadcast after the Biafran command capitulated earlier in the day. He asked the Biafran leaders to send delegates to field headquarters to work out terms to end the 2½-year-old civil war.

Adequate Care Pledged
He pledged that "adequate care will be given to all civilians" and said army units will be accompanied by police "to establish effective federal presence... They will take all care... and shoot only if they encounter resistance."

Gowon said he accepted in

good faith the declaration by Biafran Maj. Gen. Philip Effiong that the vanquished secessionists would make peace in accord with the Organization of African Unity's resolution stipulating a united Nigeria.

Effiong Takes Over
Effiong, 45, took over Sunday night after the Biafran Chief of state, Gen. C. Odumegwu Ojukwu, left the country on one of the last flights out. A Red Cross worker said Ojukwu flew to Libreville, Gabon.

Ojukwu was expected to arrive today in Lusaka, the capital of Zambia, and the Zambian government said it would grant him asylum. But it added that it preferred that he fly "as soon as possible" to Europe for security reasons. Zambia is one of the four African countries that recognized Biafra.

Little Jubilation
Despite radio broadcasts and victory editions of newspapers, there was little jubilation in Lagos at the war's end. Clusters of soldiers at the usual roadblocks and sentry points appeared almost indifferent.

"If we had been fighting another country, perhaps it would be different," said one Nigerian. "There is no rejoicing in this."

Federal rehabilitation commission officials ordered hundreds of tons of supplies to points near the front to supplement stocks assembled to feed about 500,000 refugees.

A civilian state government for the area that has been Biafra already exists with headquarters at Enugu. It is one of the states in the federal structure Biafra resisted for 2½ years.

MAJ. GEN. PHILIP EFFIONG, above, announced the surrender of Biafra to federal forces of Nigeria Monday. He asked for an immediate cease-fire. (AP Wirephoto)

News Media Blamed For 'Contributing' To U.S. Violence

WASHINGTON (AP) — A study prepared for the National Violence Commission contends the news media contributes to violence in America by failing to report thoroughly on the social problems that lead to confrontations.

"Too many news organizations fear social ideas and social action," the commission's task force on mass media and violence concluded in a study paper.

Arouse Anxiety
"As a result, they stimulate, dissatisfy, and arouse anxiety only to fall silent or limit themselves to irrelevant clichés when thoughtful solutions are required."

The task force report is a 613-page book prepared under the direction of a former Justice Department attorney, Robert K. Baker, and a Seattle sociologist, Dr. Sandra J. Ball. The study report does not carry the endorsement of the full commission.

Group Disbanded
The 13-member commission itself, headed by Milton S. Eisenhower, disbanded Dec. 10 after 18 months of investigating and reporting on violence in the United States.

The task force report describes the news media as over-sensitive to outside criticism. "Never before have the American news media been so defensive while being so successful," the report said.

But the task force went on, "The media have contributed to the widespread use of confrontation as an instrument of social change by their failure to report adequately the conditions underlying current protest, by the proposals for solution of pressing social problems, and by their action-oriented coverage of conflict..."

Press Overly Blamed
While the news media could do more toward lessening the tensions that breed violence, the task force said, the press is sometimes overly blamed for the violence itself.

"It is undoubtedly true," the report said, "that some groups have learned to use violence and the press to exploit their goals. They have learned that the media generally can be counted on to give violent behavior a prominent role in the day's news.

"The result is that when they seek publicity for their grievances, conflict and possibly violence may be one of the techniques used in the fairly certain knowledge that the press will make sure 'the whole world is watching.'"

Less Truth Noted
"Although there is truth in this charge, it is probably a good deal less than seems to be popularly believed. First, violence is not necessary to gain media attention. In the case of television particularly, any kind of physical action or dramatization of conflict will usually suffice.

"Second, groups who engage in violence are apt to have their message lost because of the media tendency to focus on the violence to the exclusion of the message."

Third, the use of violence, as is usually the case in university confrontations, is a political instrument used to provoke the police and thereby radicalize large numbers of students who

Levin's Hat In Governor Race

LANSING (AP) — The State Democratic chairman expressed enthusiasm and Republican Gov. William Milliken reacted with mild interest to word that Sen. Sander Levin, D-Berkeley, considering running for governor.

Levin announced he will resign as Senate minority leader "so I may have time to explore the possibilities of running for governor."

Levin said at a Lansing news conference Monday he probably will make a definite announcement "in four to eight weeks."

"I think the Democratic Party has a golden opportunity to win in 1970," Levin declared, "the best since 1962." That was the last time the Democrats held the governor's office.

Levin said he thought Milliken "has been very weak at a time when we need strong leadership."

"I'm very happy that someone of Sen. Levin's stature is considering running for governor," said James McNeely, Democratic state chairman. "This is just another assessment of how weak we find Gov. Milliken."

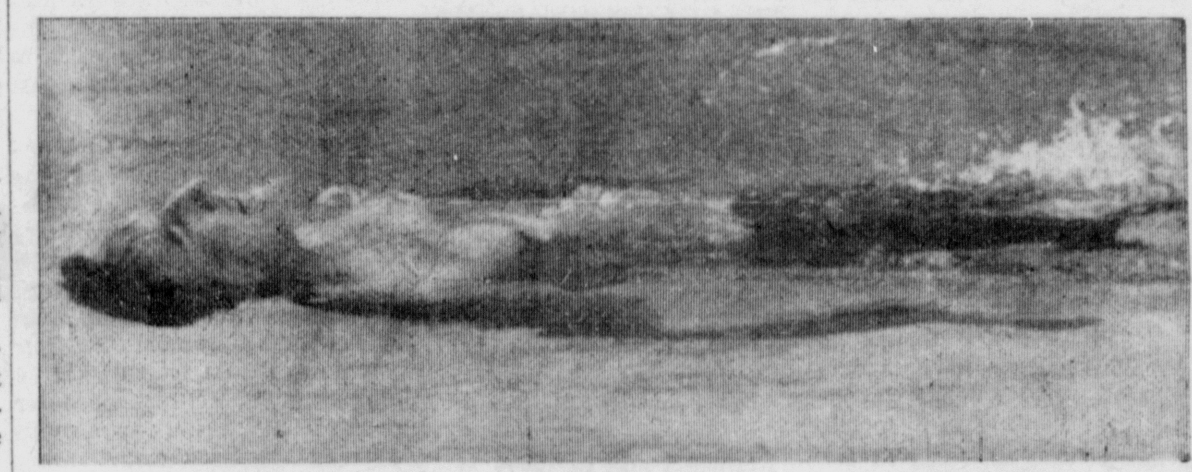

Milliken said he was not surprised at the announcement because Levin had tipped him off in advance.

The governor said that from an operational standpoint it was wise for Levin to make the move at this time.

Milliken mentioned former Detroit Mayor Jerome Cavanagh as another possible Democratic candidate.

The governor was asked who he thought might be the strongest candidate among the many Democratic possibilities that have been mentioned.

"I don't think I'll give them the benefit of my advice," the governor grinned.

Australians Heckle Vice President

CANBERRA, Australia (AP) — About 100 antiwar demonstrators heckled U.S. Vice President Spiro T. Agnew as he laid a wreath today at Australia's war memorial, and protest groups planned a larger demonstration Wednesday.

Five of the hecklers—four young men and a woman—were arrested.

The protesters carried 10 North Vietnamese flags and about 15 signs saying "Agnew is a Dirty Fascist Pig," "Beware of Gift Bearing Greeks," "Were You at My Lai?" and "Moon Rocks and Murder."

As Agnew and his wife emerged from the memorial, they waved to the crowd of 300 to 400, and the crowd responded with an evenly divided mixture of applause and boos.

Later, when Agnew left his hotel for dinner with Prime Minister John Gorton, about two dozen protesters flanked by as many policemen shouted at him.

Drugs, Political Literature Taken In Panther Raid
CHICAGO (AP) — The leader of a police raid in which two Black Panther party leaders were fatally shot has testified that political literature and illegal drugs were found at the West Side apartment where the shooting occurred.

Sgt. Daniel R. Groth was on the witness stand Monday for the fourth day in the inquest into the deaths of Fred Hampton 21, Illinois Panther chairman, Mark Clark, 22, a downstate Panther leader.

Groth testified that police crime lab tests indicated that some medical supplies taken from the apartment were illegal drugs.

He also testified that among literature confiscated from the apartment were a 424-page volume on the art of shooting, a book on the Soviet system of government and a paperback prepared by the Students for a Democratic Society. He said the latter work contained "directions about what to do when you're confronted by police."

and waved North Vietnamese flags. At the prime minister's, a counter demonstration was under way. Two dozen persons carried signs saying "Croats of Canberra Welcome You," "Prevent Communist Aggression"

Demos Foresee 'Sweeter' Year
WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield says this election year for his party may be "the time for honey rather than vinegar."

As an example, he had a few words of praise for President Nixon. "He's done a pretty good job, I think, in the first year, all things considered. At least he's got us going the other way in Vietnam, with troops coming out, not fast enough, but coming out."

Mansfield said he hopes the Democratic Congress can cooperate with the Republican administration in the session ahead.

"There are ways and ways to operate in an election year," said the tanned Montana senator, just back from a vacation at a Florida retreat. "Maybe this is the time for honey rather than vinegar."

Mansfield's comments come, however, as Senate Democrats prepare to battle President Nixon on a matter they see as a possible major issue in the 1970 elections—the question of priorities.

The majority leader said the first action of the new session will deal with the $19.7 billion appropriations bill which Nixon has promised to veto because it contains $1.26 billion more than the administration wants for education and health programs.

Some Democrats, Mansfield said, believe a Nixon veto would be helpful politically to them during the coming campaign, because of the issue involved.

Thirty-five senators, 25 of them Democrats, have terms expiring with the current Congress. Mansfield is one of them.

and "We Support American Australian Friendship." As Agnew's motorcade pulled up, the small group applauded.

Antiwar protest groups were reported bringing in busloads of demonstrators from Sydney, Melbourne and Adelaide to demonstrate Wednesday at Parliament House while Agnew attends a Cabinet luncheon there.

Prime Minister John Gorton greeted the vice president and his wife today on their arrival from Bali for the next to last stop of their 11-nation Asian tour. They go to New Zealand Thursday.

Agnew told newsmen during the flight from the Indonesian holiday island that U.S. understanding of Asia is hampered by the fact that some Asian leaders criticize the American presence in the area "for their local domestic political consumption" but seek it in private discussions.

He named no countries.

Private Schools Fear Loss Of Tax Money

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Private school officials say denial of income tax benefits to their donors would be a blow—but not a fatal one—to the hundreds of such institutions mushrooming across the South to avoid integration.

In a random poll by The Associated Press, they conceded they would be hurt financially by the tax policy shift suggested by Robert H. Finch, secretary of health, education and welfare.

But most said the bulk of their support came from tuition, not wealthy donors, and none felt their schools would be closed down by such tax action.

Private academies have been flourishing, principally in the South, since the Civil Rights Act of 1964. Finch estimates 400 were formed to escape public school integration.

Under present tax laws, contributions to nonprofit educational institutions are deductible from federal income taxes.

In the case of wealthy donors, this can mean a saving of 30 to 70 cents on every dollar contributed, the comptroller of one private school said.

Thousands of older private schools depend heavily on tax deductible contributions for raising funds.

However, officials of the new schools claim they do not receive heavy contributions. One, from Louisiana, said his school was deliberately set up as a profit-making organization because "we figured the federal octopus would stick its nose into this."

Christian Brothers To Leave Holy Name

At a special meeting Monday night, the Holy Name High School Board of Education was informed by Rev. Lawrence Gauthier, superintendent of schools of the Diocese of Marquette, that the Brothers of the Christian Schools with great reluctance will no longer be able to fulfill their commitment of personnel to Holy Name High School after this school year.

Br. Francis Wray, provincial of the Brothers of the Christian Schools, in a Dec. 19 letter to the Most Rev. Charles A. Salatik, bishop of Marquette, explained that shortages of personnel in their order, has required that the Brothers withdraw from one school in each diocese they serve.

Extensive discussion by Bishop Salatik, Fr. Gauthier and Rev. Vincent Ouellette, superintendent of Holy Name, with Br. Francis has not resulted in the Brothers altering their decision with regard to Holy Name.

Sisters To Increase

Fr. Gauthier and Fr. Ouellette have been in frequent contact with the several religious orders of women who serve the Diocese of Marquette, especially the Notre Dame Sisters and the Franciscan Sisters of Manistowic, who now also staff Holy Name, to increase the number of sisters at the high school.

There has been some success in this, and a larger number of sisters is expected next year, they reported.

The rest of the depletion of personnel will be filled with lay teachers. As has been the policy at Holy Name in the past, an effort will be made to hire men, where lay teachers are needed.

The Christian Brothers have taught at Holy Name since its beginning in 1954. Presently four brothers serve the school: Br. Mark, principal of the boys' department; Dr. Alphonsus teaching chemistry, general and physical science; Br. Christopher in English, literature, humanities and drama, and Br. Felix in architectural drafting. All also teach religion and have a variety of extra-curricular functions.

The Board of Education and the administration, faculty, and staff of Holy Name accepted the announcement with great regret, pointing out the great contributions of the Christian Brothers to the school and the community. Br. Mark was at the meeting and expressed the gratitude of the brothers to the people of the area for their many kindnesses. They have been very happy here, he said, and receive the news of their withdrawal with great reluctance.

News Media Get Blame For Aiding U.S. Violence

"Today, the press is less dependent upon violent content—upon titillation in general—than it may ever have been. The hard fact is that violence is not primarily what the news media have to offer today. For those who suppose that it is, that may be because it is what they have come to expect—or choose—to see and read."

More Self-Examination

The task force recommendations, largely ignored by the full commission in its final report last month, included more self-examination by the press, more interpretive reporting on social ills, tighter guidelines for the coverage of disorders, and better relations between the press and minority groups.

"It should become habitual editorial policy to display fairly and clearly the opinions, analyses, and solutions offered by a wide variety of people—expert and nonexpert—covering the spectrum, regardless of the proprietor's personal position . . .

Positive Happenings

"The last generation of reporters concentrated on reporting positive physical happenings—telling the reader what he saw with his own eyes and heard with his own ears. The next generation must concentrate on describing what somebody else thinks."

The government, the report said, should give closer scrutiny to mergers and transactions tending toward greater concentration in the media.

The Federal Communications Commission should dispel the ambiguities of its fairness doctrine, which governs the broadcasting of controversial topics, and should measure the expenditures of broadcasters for news-public affairs programming when evaluating license renewal bids, the task force said.

A summary of other task force recommendations:

—The government should provide the Corporation for Public Broadcasting a news-public affairs budget comparable to those of the networks—$40 million to $50 million annually.

—The Justice Department and FCC should scrutinize all mergers, license applications, and sales that would result in greater concentration of media ownership.

—Government should stay abreast of new communications developments, like community antenna television—Cable TV—and "be prepared to assure that further concentration of control does not occur."

—Journalists should "re-examine the degree to which existing news judgments incorporate obsolete standards, including a tendency to report violence because it is sensational rather than because it is significant . . . The press should develop a special sensitivity to the danger of overstating the degree of conflict."

—Interpretive news stories should be allocated more resources and given greater prominence—Page 1 for newspapers, more time on evening television news programs, which should be expanded to one hour.

—Regular surveillance of minority group activities by the media, and more hiring of newsmen from minority groups.

—Establishment by the media of grievance machinery to allow complaints by persons who feel their viewpoints have not been allotted sufficient coverage.

—Continued efforts by journalists "to upgrade their profession at a personal or individual level," through mid-career training programs.

—Establishment of a code or other form of guideline for the coverage of riots or other disorders, with the aid of rumor-clearance centers and advance contacts with police and dissident groups.

Manistique Defines Urban Renewal Area

MANISTIQUE — About 50 persons attended a public hearing Monday night on the proposed urban renewal program to revamp the central business district.

Other than a heated outburst at the end of the hearing (see related story), the hour-long meeting culminated in Council adopting an ordinance defining the boundaries of the program and setting Feb. 9 for the next hearing.

A hearing is only a preliminary step to development of a program and must be held under state statute to define the boundaries of the program, City Manager Robert Noe and the Council stressed.

Has $117,000 Grant

The district includes the four-block area bounded by Main, Maple, Oak and Pearl streets, plus a one-block section bordered by Oak, Lake, Arbutus and Maple streets.

The city has a $117,000 grant from the federal government that will be used to survey the district. Two questions will be answered once the survey is completed, Noe said.

1. Which buildings are structurally sound and need not be torn down, and

2. The market value of those buildings deemed unsuitable.

Residents and property owners in the district are fully protected by law and may appeal if they disagree with either of the survey findings.

Not Yet Committed

"The city and the federal government are not trying to take away the rights of any individual," Noe said. At this stage, no one knows just what the program will involve and won't know until the survey is completed.

The city is not committed to urban renewal — estimated to take about eight years from beginning to end — and may drop the plan at several points along the way.

"Urban renewal is a means of revitalizing (removing and replacing old buildings) a district or area through use of federal funds when private funds will not undertake such a step," Noe said in reply to a question from Clyde Lambert, 218 Walnut St. The federal government will pay 75 per cent of cost to qualifying municipalities.

Lambert, whose home is located in the proposed district, first said he felt the city should "get industry in and then rebuild the town." Later, he asked for a brochure on the program to learn more about the details.

Owner Comes First

In answers to other questions, the audience was told that if a person's property is found unsuitable and slated for demolition, the owner has the first chance to buy it back and that private financing is available to help.

Off street parking is included in the plan; a council of 12 district residents and/or property owners will be appointed to work with the city on the total project; the present boundaries can be changed and would probably be extended, either north or northwest, if approved by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD); the 300 block of Lake St. is not included in the plan and was listed in the legal notice only to save the city the trouble of defining individual descriptions on the Maple St. side of the block slated for inclusion in the plan.

The city must pay one quarter of the total project cost, but may include "in kind" contributions such as improvements to streets, sewers, curb and gutters, lighting, new construction.

Delays Costly

"The longer we delay, the more credit we lose," Councilman Thor Reque added. "For example, right now the city may include 50 per cent of the blacktopping costs completed in certain areas of U.S. 2 this past summer."

What could happen to Manistique's downtown shopping center if urban renewal is denied was pointed out by Clarence Peterson, owner of the C-L Hardware, who said "we're facing the same problem Marquette and Escanaba did four years ago. Marquette has a shopping center out of their central business district with parking for 1,500 cars. During the holidays, there weren't many parking spaces left. Escanaba is facing the same problem."

Reque agreed, adding that "a prime example of the lack of urban renewal can be seen by anyone driving the Ludington St. area of Escanaba just beyond the Daily Press building. This area was further affected when the decision to move the Escanaba Post Office to another location was announced last year."

To Name Council

At the Feb. 9 public hearing, an urban renewal council will be named. Under the law, the 12-member council must consist of at least 60 per cent of district residents with the balance drawn from district property owners.

In other business, Council adopted a salary schedule for administrative personnel effective Jan. 1, 1970. Approved were: Public Safety Director, $8,085; City Clerk, $7,690; City Assessor, $6,680; of which $4,580 is paid by the city and $2,100 from the Department of Senior Citizens for duties as Housing Administrator; Deputy City Clerk, $6,330; City Manager, $12,000; Office Clerk, $2,05 per hour.

Officer Hired

Noe announced that David Neville, 539 Cherry St., has been hired as a city patrolman and will begin work Jan. 19.

A request from the Manistique Snowmobile Association for $517.20 to purchase building materials for a judges booth for the snowmobile derby in March was denied because of lack of funds.

Mayor DeMars said he expected a three-way meeting between the Waterways Commission, Northern Michigan Engineers, Inc., of Escanaba, and Council would be held in February to discuss the harbor improvement plans. Before adjourning, Council appointed Reque as legislative contact man for the year.

Council Supports City Manager At Manistique

MANISTIQUE — City Council unanimously passed a resolution of confidence in City Manager Robert Noe after it was suggested that "the city discharge the manager and get some of the old guys in here who knew what they were doing."

The suggestion came from John Anderson, 220 Oak St., who spoke out against the proposed urban renewal program during a public hearing Monday night at City Hall.

Anderson's business is located in the proposed urban renewal district.

Anderson voiced concern that the urban renewal program would "put me out of business" and felt the city should "first get industry and get money for improvements . . . it's not necessary for you to change our businesses," before tackling urban renewal.

Councilman Replies

Councilman Harold Carlson told Anderson the proposed central business district renovation was "not intended to put anyone out of business, but to encourage, not discourage, new business."

Anderson's suggestion that Noe be fired was echoed by Norman W. Jahn, owner of Jahn's Saloon, which also is located in the proposed district.

Jahn charged that "we had a good town before Noe came here and we should get rid of him. The townships are all against him and he can't tell the truth because lies are being told again here tonight."

His statement about the "lies being told again" was qualified when Jahn added "he (Noe) wasn't telling the truth about the fire protection figures, the explanation of the $40,000 salary budget figure of the city fire department."

Earlier Dispute

Jahn tangled with the city manager during a Dec. 30 meeting between city, county, and township officials called to discuss fire protection to the townships. Jahn, who sits on the county board of commissioners as a city supervisor, then questioned the annual wages of the four city firemen.

Earlier in the evening, Jahn was told that provisions in the program would take into consideration a "business interruption period" during the urban renewal process. Jahn said then that he is satisfied with his business and building and that several people had urged him "to never change it."

His bar is operated on an old-time saloon image: no stools, telephone, juke box or television.

People Leave

Mayor Leo DeMars brought the meeting to order following the two outbursts, which came at the end of the hearing. Most of the 50 persons in the audience left before Council unanimously passed the resolution of confidence in the city manager and an ordinance defining the boundaries of the proposed program.

Noe read a breakdown of fire department salaries into the record after first noting that "Mr. Jahn left again before finding out the facts" and wondering aloud "why a city supervisor is looking after the interest of the townships when he represents the city?"

The salary breakdown was: $6,282.97 - base fireman's pay as of July 1, 1970; $192 - holiday pay; $75 - uniform allowance; $2,161 - fringe benefits including paid hospitalization, retirement, incidental benefits; $839.99 - administrative salary expense. Total - $9,550.96 per fireman.

Multiplied by three, the total is $28,652.88, Noe said, and added to that must be the chief's salary, $10,150.96, plus fringe (additional $600 base salary above others). The total anticipated department expenditure is $38,803.84.

Noe stressed that the breakdown does not include overtime pay, volunteer firemen's pay, maintenance, a $1,600 emergency fire telephone hook-up, incidental expenses, heat, light, etc.

Snowmobile Hits Auto; Boys Hurt

MARQUETTE — One boy was critically hurt and another seriously injured when the snowmobile on which they were riding crashed head-on into a station wagon here at 4:30 p.m. Monday.

Listed as critically injured is Daniel Klumb, 10, passenger on the snowmobile operated by his step-brother, Michael Mineau, 15.

Daniel suffered extensive internal injuries, head injuries and a fractured left leg, while Michael has a compound fracture of the right leg and a fractured pelvis.

They are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Mineau of Marquette Rte. 2 and the accident occurred on Wright St. in northern Marquette. Both are patients in St. Lukes Hospital.

Marquette police said the car was driven by Delphine Parrish, 34, of 3194 Lake Shore Blvd., Marquette, and that the driver was unable to avoid the accident.

The snowmobile appeared suddenly around a curve and ran into the front of the car. The snowmobile was demolished.

GAYLORD (AP)—The City of Gaylord is swarming with snowmobiles but the City Council moved Monday night to slow down the boom in motorized sledding.

Ordinances were adopted by this northern Michigan city Monday in an attempt to curb the rash of traffic hazards, injuries and violations of privacy blamed on snowmobiling.

If the proposed legislation takes effect, the vehicles will be permitted only on designated portions of the city's streets, and only licensed drivers would be allowed to operate them.

Snow vehicles would be required to stop at all intersections and yield the right of way to pedestrians and auto traffic.

Another ordinance adopted Monday night would prohibit snowmobiles from entering private property without oral consent of the owner.

Gaylord has some 26 inches of snow, compared to last December when 54 inches had accumulated in the area. City officials estimate the number of snowmobiles in use this winter has more than doubled from last season.

UPCAP Forms Panel On Aging For Peninsula

The Upper Peninsula Committee on Area Progress (UPCAP) has formed a Committee on Aging to coordinate activities directed at alleviating social and economic problems of the elderly in the U.P., Lee D. Meyers, UPCAP executive director, announced today.

Dr. Jesse Farris, professor of psychology at Michigan Technological University, Houghton, was elected chairman of the Committee at its organizational meeting in Escanaba.

Other officers are Dan Bonetti, Iron River, chairman of the Dickinson-Iron Community Action Agency, first vice-president; Ted Ver Haagh, Marquette, Wis., director of Mental Health Services of Marinette-Menominee, second vice-president; and Betty Howe, L'Anse, director of the Michigan Senior Citizens Center, secretary-treasurer.

Functions Specified

Gerald K. Wyman, Grants Division director for the Michigan Commission on Aging, Lansing, praised the formation of the committee.

"The Committee could serve as the advocate for the area's elderly citizens by bringing together representatives of the many public and private agencies," he said. The Committee also could serve as a forum and planning body to better coordinate and utilize existing resources and develop more effective programs and services for the elderly."

The UPCAP Committee on Aging also might serve as liaison for the three White House conferences on aging which will be held in Michigan during 1970 and 1971, prior to the national White House Conference on Aging, scheduled for "late 1971". The conference will seek to develop a more adequate national policy for older Americans and make specific recommendations to all levels of government as well as private and voluntary groups, said Wyman.

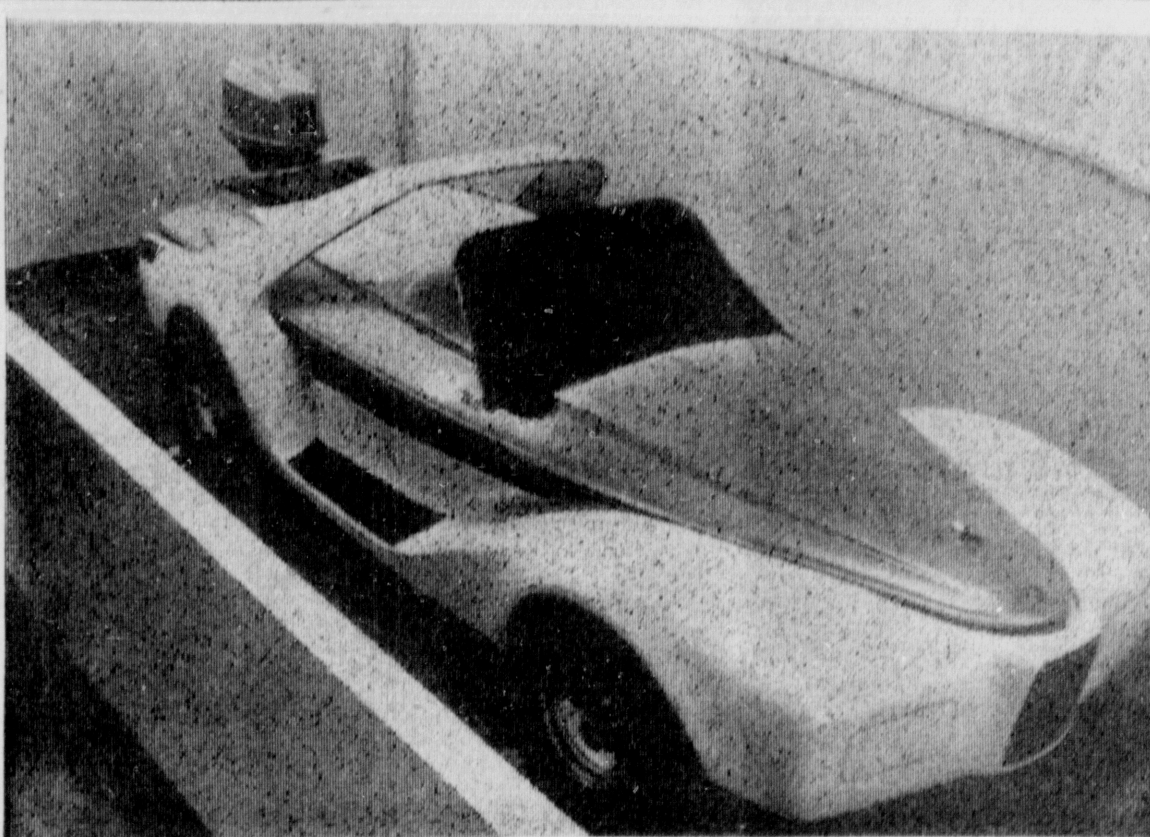

High Elderly Count

Robert Olsen, UPCAP representative on the Committee on Aging, explained that the U.P. has a higher percentage of over-65 persons than either the state or the U.S.

In 1960 over 11 percent of the U.P. population was over 65; Michigan had 8.2 percent over 65 and the U.S., 8.2 percent, he said. Six counties in the U. P. had over 12 percent of their population over 65 in 1960; Lapeer, 12.7 percent; Dickinson, 13.5 percent; Iron, 13.3 percent; Gogebic, 13.7 percent; Keweenaw, 13.8 percent, and Houghton, 14.3 percent.

There is a definite need for the Committee on Aging to begin to plan future coordinated action toward alleviating social and economic problems of the elderly, said Olsen. He explained that the Committee on Aging is a member committee of the UPCAP Human Resources Council.

Present members of the Committee on Aging of the area are Charles Folio, Robert Olsen, Arnold T. Williams, Escanaba; James Anderson, Gladstone; Mary M. Hanson and Gene Marcantonio, Powers; Pauline M. Holloway and Earl LaBrasseur, Manistique.

Unemployment Is Increasing In U.P.

Unemployment in the Upper Peninsula increased to 8.2 percent in 1969, exactly twice as high as the Michigan rate, according to figures released by the Michigan Employment Security Commission.

In 1968, the state unemployment rate was 4.3 percent compared to an even 8 percent in the U. P. The 4.1 percent this year is a drop from 4.3 percent in 1968.

The two county, Delta-Schoolcraft area currently has 1,128 persons collecting unemployment, compared with only 945 at this time a year ago.

"Primarily, our problem here is seasonal employment," said Jim Damitz, branch manager for the Escanaba office of the MESC.

Damitz also pointed out that a lot of persons who were employed by Mead Corporation during its summer construction are now on the unemployment rolls.

In the entire U. P., the unemployment total at the close of 1969 was running slightly over 8,000. The Upper Peninsula work force is estimated close to 100,000.

Contributing to the overall U. P. increase was the closing of two Calumet & Hecla copper mines in the Copper Country, two iron ore mines in Iron County and the Royal Oak Charcoal plant in Marquette.

The largest U. P. employer is Cleveland-Cliffs Iron Co., Ishpeming, with a payroll of 3,100. Second, and steadily gaining is Copper Range Co. at White Pine with 2,701 workers.

Forest Supervisor Talks To Kiwanis

One of the Upper Peninsula's newest and soon to be finest camping and recreation areas, the Big-Sea-Water National Forest Recreation Area was explained by a talk and slide presentation to Escanaba Kiwanians Monday noon.

Alfred Troutt, Hiawatha National Forest supervisor, spoke of the excellent facility which is in service at this time, but which has many improvements in the making just west of Sault Ste. Marie.

Troutt said the Hiawatha is a young forest, and at present yields about seven times more timber than it did 30 years ago. Yet, only about 70 per cent of the merchantable timber is being forested. By the year 2,000, wood will be needed for the construction of 50 per cent more housing facilities than we have today, according to a report by the federal housing committee, he reported.

Besides the value in properly handling the forests for their natural resources, multiple use management which the Forest Service features helps to get the utmost out of areas so far as recreation is concerned.

Only 3 per cent of the national forest area in the United States lies east of the Mississippi River, Troutt said, and a large portion of Michigan's forests lie within the Ottawa National Forest on the western end, and the Hiawatha which starts near Rapid River. This is a priceless heritage which our children will continue to enjoy, he added.

The "Big-Sea-Water" offers a combination of miles of beautiful sand beaches, numerous streams feeding into the clear waters of Lake Superior, high escarpments affording spectacular views, several inland lakes, and the distant hills of Canada, all in one area.

The area of some 64,000 acres will be managed by the U.S. Forest Service to obtain a continuing yield of all forest products. The area is the same that was described by Henry Wadsworth Longfellow in his ballad, "The Song of Hiawatha." It will feature 29 miles of highway, and 40 miles of hiking and riding trails. The development will afford recreation area for 2,520 families, Troutt reported.

Mining History

From the copper mining of the Great Lakes aborigines through the lusty period of the gold rushers and on to the geologic exploration of the moon, the history of mining in America has reflected man's search for wealth, adventure, scientific knowledge and technological advancement, according to Crown Publishers, which this month is bringing out a book entitled "A Pictorial History of American Mining."

Written by Howard and Lucille Sloane, speleologists and mining buffs, the book consists of 342 oversized pages and is abundantly illustrated with some very interesting drawings and photographs of mining operations today and yesterday and personalities who have played prominent parts in the history of mining in this country.

The publishers claim this is the first single volume to chronicle the history of this industry from its beginnings 4,000 years ago to the 20th Century explorations on the moon. "The authors not only detail the techniques and mining operations from earliest times to the present, but also recreate the life of the mining camps and trails," says Crown. "Women outlaws, child laborers, gamblers, gunmen, entrepreneurs and railroad barons — the volume reveals all the colorful characters from Alferd Packer who dined on fellow prospectors to Mark Twain who immortalized these people in his stories."

Although the volume covers the entire spectrum of major mining developments in America, Upper Peninsula readers may well feel that this area has not received the attention it merits in the history of mining.

Of the volume's 342 pages, less than 15 are devoted to mining in the Upper Peninsula even though this was once the leading copper and iron producing area in the United States. The Upper Peninsula was the site of a copper rush before the famous California gold rush of 1849. The first iron ore discovery in the Lake Superior district occurred on the Marquette Range, and the Upper Peninsula provided the iron ore that helped carry the Union forces to victory in the Civil War.

Upper Peninsulans can take some comfort in the fact that the vast Minnesota iron ranges — the Mesabi and Vermilion — receive even less space. They're disposed of in less than three pages.

It may be that this viewpoint is too parochial in that it fails to appreciate the overall perspective the authors were compelled to adopt in order to compile a general history of mining for all of the United States. But living in an area that owes its development to mining and that is one of the pioneering mining regions in the United States, the impression that the Upper Peninsula contributions to the iron and copper mining story deserve more attention is inescapable.

Overlooking the objections to the volume that stem from sectionalism, it can be said that "A Pictorial History of American Mining" offers some fascinating reading and great looking — at the thousand or so pictures, many of them never published before. Anyone interested in mining and/or history will find a good deal of interest here.

'Ten Commandments'

Vice President Spiro Agnew continues to demonstrate why he has not only become a household word but a highly popular one.

He has a way of touching the nerve ends of his opponents, and that ability was nowhere better displayed than in his "Ten Commandments" speech directed at the new left. The things which he admonishes the new left not to do happen to be the things it would never consider doing.

The stone tablets reads:

- I. Thou shalt not allow thy opponent to speak.
- II. Thou shalt not set forth a program of thine own.
- III. Thou shalt not trust anybody over 30.
- IV. Thou shalt not honor thy father or thy mother.
- V. Thou shalt not heed the lessons of history.
- VI. Thou shalt not write anything longer than a slogan.
- VII. Thou shalt not present a negotiable demand.
- VIII. Thou shalt not accept an establishment idea.
- IX. Thou shalt not revere any but totalitarian heroes.
- X. Thou shalt not ask forgiveness for thy transgressions; rather thou shalt demand amnesty for them.

Unlike the original Ten Commandments, the "Ten Commandments" of the new left is an easy code. Young radicals have no difficulty living by it.

They have no difficulty shouting down speakers who do not agree with them 100 per cent. Ask Hubert Humphrey.

They have no difficulty embracing the doctrine of destruction for destruction's sake.

They have no difficulty tuning out their elders.

They know that history, if forgotten, will not have to be repeated.

They know that a slogan suffices for thought.

They know that any compromise is unacceptable.

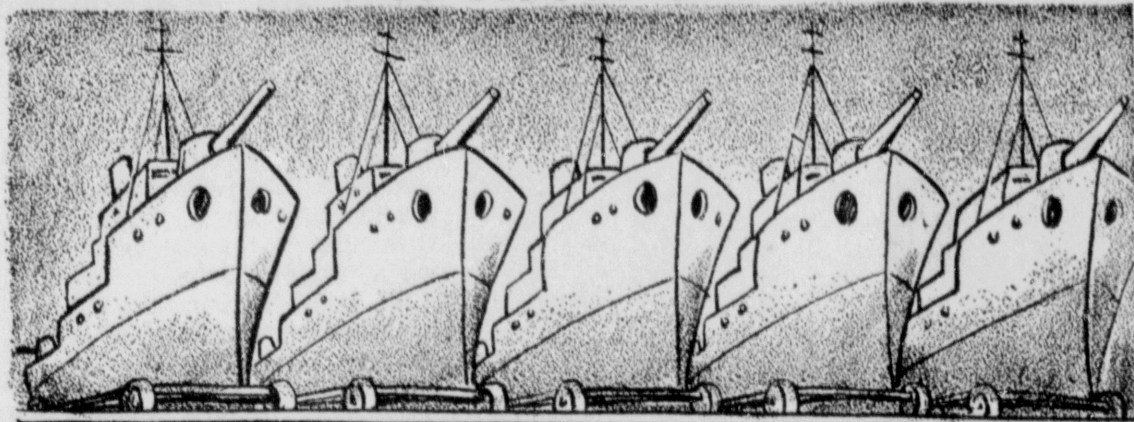

They know that their mission is to teach their elders, not be taught by them.

They have no trouble exalting Che Guevara, Fidel Castro, and Ho Chi Minh while ignoring American heroes.

And it is only right that their transgressions go unpunished for they are committed in service to a higher cause.

From the controversy which the vice president has stirred with this and other speeches recently, there is only one conclusion: The truth hurts.

Five Gunboats All on a Shelf.

Then One Day There Were None.

U.S., West German Policies Parallel

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

RHEINFELDEN, West Germany — There is a striking parallel between the Nixon Administration in America and the regime of Chancellor Willy Brandt in West Germany.

For both the Bonn and Washington governments have decided the time has come to woo Communists into talking. Thus Vice President Spiro Agnew, alighting from his Air Force Two plane in Taiwan, risked the displeasure of the world's most adamant anti-Communist leader when he informed Free China's Chiang Kai-shek that the U.S. must open relations with Red China.

And Willy Brandt, who made his reputation as Mayor of West Berlin by facing down the Communists when the monstrous Berlin Wall was a-building, is going against all his original hard-line anti-Communist supporters by signaling that the "other Germany" (Stalinist Comrade Ulbricht's so-called Democratic Republic) is no longer to be treated as a social pariah.

Speaking as one who has always been skeptical of the value of courting Communists, Spiro Agnew's gambit in Taiwan and Willy Brandt's wiggling to Ulbricht leave me equally uneasy. Just why is a little difficult to say.

Obviously there need be no danger in talking: the U.S. doesn't have to surrender anything to Red China in the course of a "dialogue," and West Germany is under no compulsion to accept Herr Ulbricht's demand that East Germany be recognized as an enduring sovereign nation. The nations of the West do not have to repeat the mistakes of Yalta, or of the diplomacy that accompanied General Marshall's attempt to foist a "coalition" regime on China.

Striving to quell my own uneasiness, I asked some very conservative West Germans in this southwest corner of Germany how they felt about the new Brandt venture in "ostpolitik" (east politics). Their attitude was somewhere between skepticism and welcome of something new just because it is new.

Surprisingly, one conservative admitted that he had, for the first time, voted for the Social Democrats in the last election.

"The Christian Democrats had become frozen in their policies," he said. "Maybe nothing will come of a change. Maybe Brandt will fail. Maybe it is a great mistake to talk with Ulbricht. But something has to be tried."

Another West German said he hoped I'd write a column about Willy Brandt just because the man needs sympathy. "Actually," this German said, "Willy Brandt can't give anything away. West Berlin is not his problem; it is the problem of the U.S., Britain, France and Russia. It doesn't matter what Brandt tries to do about Poland and the Oder-Neisse line; the line is going to stay anyway."

As for recognition of East German public opinion polls don't leave Willy Brandt much room for maneuver here. If he were to say that he is willing to accept the division of Germany into two nations as permanent he would hardly survive as chancellor.

The "era of negotiation," then, is likely to drag out well beyond this year in Willy Brandt's Europe. Just so it may take a long, long time for Spiro Agnew's hopes for any real change vis-a-vis Red China to materialize. The Communists on both sides of the world do not know how to retreat from hard-and fast positions.

For opening "dialogues" with the East. Neither Willy Brandt's West Germany nor Richard Nixon's America is going to surrender on important issues.

And, since the Communists won't settle for anything significant that is short of their total demand (recognition of East Germany, the withdrawal of U.S. support of Taiwan), the talking, if it takes place, will remain just talk.

In the long future, of course, the Communists might consent to the unification of Germany provided the Old Bismarck policy is reinstated. Bismarck always played for peace in the East in order to be able to afford a ferocious face toward the West.

But no West German is talking, just yet, about cutting ties with NATO just to please Moscow. This is hardly a worry for 1970.

Letters To The Press

DNR POLICIES

It's a tragic day in the history of Michigan when the Conservation Commission denies its citizens the right to harvest fish in Big and Little Bay de Noc.

I say tragic because we plant and restock our lakes and the people of Wisconsin, Indiana and even Canada can fish our fish and we can't.

You gentlemen on the Conservation Commission may think you have the "Silent Majority" fooled, but you are in for a rude awakening.

We are not going to stand by and watch this state turn into a "Millionaire Sportsman's Club" and nuts to the tax paying citizens of Michigan.

As of December, we have formed the "U.P. Game Protection Association" to combat this powerful Conservation Commission and we're going to contact every lawmaker in Michigan to adopt legislation to restrict the unreasonable programs that are being enacted.

After planting coho in our streams the Conservation Dept. fined many citizens for snagging them and after tasting them I think they should have given them (the people) a meal instead of a fine for all they are trash fish.

On Jan. 9 it was stated in the Daily Press that the Conservation Commission said that any change in their present programs would set them back 10 years. Well, gentlemen, if this is valid reasoning then it's just as valid to reason that you set the people and the fishermen back 100 years with your unreasonable programs on fishing and doe seasons.

Harold Nelson, 301 Delta Ave., Gladstone, Recording Secretary, U.P. Game Protection Assn.

(Editor's Note: The Conservation Commission recently relaxed somewhat its commercial fishing restrictions for Big Bay de Noc to allow pound net fishing under specified conditions. Gill nets, however, are still prohibited except as regulated in specific commercial fishing zones.)

WINDSOR, Ont. (AP) — What are straight "A" students made of?

People who know nine-year-old Rickie Marcotte, a straight "A" 4th grader at St. Gabriel's Catholic School in Windsor, might say self-confidence and pluck.

Rickie was upset when the answer booklet didn't agree with answers he gave to questions in a reading test. So he took the test and the answer booklet to his teacher.

She looked them over and gave them to the principal who took them to the Catholic school board.

Opening lead—jack of hearts. Declarer sometimes knows a great deal about how the opposing cards are divided before play even starts. This knowledge, acquired from the bidding, often proves decisive in guiding him to the best line of play.

Take this hand where South can draw several important inferences that flow from East's double of the club bid. West leads a heart and South wins East's king with the ace. How should he proceed?

There are two obvious approaches to the play. One is to first lead a diamond to the queen, forcing out the ace in the hope of acquiring nine tricks by way of four diamonds, two spades, two hearts and a club.

The other approach is to first take the club finesse, hoping West has the king, and in that way produce at least nine tricks composed of five clubs, two spades and two hearts.

Both methods of play would fail in the actual hand, the first because the diamonds are divided 4-1, and the second because the club finesse fails. Declarer goes down two, either way.

However, both methods are wrong because the bidding indicates that East, for his double, probably has four diamonds to the ace as well as the king of clubs.

Warned by the bidding what to expect, South should lead a spade to the ace at trick two and return a low diamond from dummy.

What can East do at this point to stop the contract? Absolutely nothing. If he goes up with the ace, South automatically acquires four diamond tricks and so gets home.

And if East plays the eight of diamonds, allowing South to win with the jack, he eventually runs into the same result. Declarer abandons diamonds after one round, switching to a club finesse which loses, and again has nine tricks to show for his efforts.

Inflation Risk Tops Recession Fears: Bankers

NEW YORK (AP) — The Federal Reserve Bank of New York says that monetary policy cannot be relaxed too soon.

It cautions in its annual economic review that the risk of prolonged, if not worsened inflation, is far more serious than the risk of a recession.

"Monetary and fiscal policies attempted to reduce excessive demand and cost pressures," says Alfred Hayes, president of the bank, in an introduction to the review. "But by year-end the economy had not yet cooled enough and price stability was far from restored. A need remained for further economic restraint in 1970." The review says that toward the end of the year there were signs that restrictive policies were beginning to work but that price and wage pressures continued.

"There is no clear answer," it says. "A shorter period of restraint in 1966 contributed to a mini-recession in 1967 with a temporary abatement of price pressures. In 1969, however, deeply imbedded convictions of continuing inflation resisted fiscal and monetary pressures and may therefore call for firm restraint in 1970."

As for the future, the review says: "Difficult policy decisions remain. There is the risk of recession if the brakes are applied hard and long. Yet policy cannot relax too soon. For the risk of prolonged, if not worsened, inflation is far more serious. "There must be continued slowing, sustained for a time, to kill off inflationary expectations and to achieve reasonable price stability."

Ann Landers

Medical Facts Back Columnist's Answer

Dear Ann Landers: I am shocked and disappointed in you. I refer to your answer to the teen-ager who wrote to ask about the harmless effects of masturbation. You replied, "Masturbation will not cause insanity, V.D., or dark circles under your eyes, nor will it hurt you in any way. The worst thing about masturbation is that it produces guilt because of the old wives' tales which have been scaring kids to death since the Year One."

Your answer has virtually given the green light to millions of young people to go ahead and indulge in this rotten, shameful, disgusting habit.

Why didn't you tell the teen-ager that while masturbation does not cause insanity or V.D., it does dull the responses, creates partial blurring of the sight, causes absent-mindedness and tends to decrease the pleasure of normal sex after marriage. My doctor told me that older men who have prostate trouble are paying the price for practicing masturbation in their youth.

You have a responsibility to the young people of America and to their parents to change your advice and I trust you will do so immediately. — Orange County

Dear Orange County — and the hundreds of others who wrote in a similar vein: My advice on masturbation did not come off the top of my head. It is the combined counsel of top medical authorities. They agreed unanimously that masturbation does not produce any ill effects, except the guilt feelings resulting from parental admonition and scare stories. It is true that a prostate condition can be aggravated by masturbation, but marital intercourse would do the same.

I've received thousands of letters from teen-agers whose guilt feeling over masturbation have produced severe personality problems. They avoid close friendships for fear someone will learn of their "despicable habit." Many teens have the notion that because they masturbate, they are homosexuals. It is not uncommon for a teen to write and describe himself as "weak, worthless and not fit to live." Some teen-agers become so despondent they consider suicide.

Every clinical study which I have seen indicates that approximately 96 per cent of all males and 88 per cent of all females have masturbated at some time during their lives. If masturbation caused blurring of sight, absent-mindedness, and prostate trouble, there would be about 140 million blurry-eyed, absent-minded prostate sufferers wandering around.

you said, "Your husband is a liar. Give him the deep six."

What, please, is the "deep six?" — Satoshi Sugita
Dear Satoshi Sugita: It might interest your Japanese readers to know that several U.S. citizens wrote to ask the same question. "The deep six" is a slang expression that literally means a grave. I wasn't recommending homicide, however. I meant to suggest that the woman get rid of the liar and bury the relationship six feet under.

Gladstone City Commission

Citizens Protest Proposed Rules For Snowmobiles

A large group of snowmobilers attended the regular meeting of the City Commission Monday night to protest the proposed snowmobile ordinance.

Tempers flared often and Mayor Arne Anderson found it difficult at times to maintain order.

Basically, the proposed ordinance would forbid snowmobilers from running on any street, sidewalk or alleyway within the city and set hours for riding between 8 a.m. and 11 p.m.

It also would set a limit of three persons to a machine and would prohibit leaving a snowmobile unattended running or with keys in the ignition while on public property.

The Commission has designated areas for snowmobiling at the city park and the area east of 3rd St.

Complaints Cited
Mayor Anderson said the Commission has given serious consideration to the ordinance drafted by the city attorney in an attempt to protect the rights of the people of Gladstone while permitting snowmobilers to enjoy their machines. He said numerous complaints have been received regarding excessive noise and the operation of the machines in alleys at high rates of speed and also on destruction of property.

Ed LeDuc, 1523 Wisconsin Ave., said the snowmobilers objected to being forced to drive their machines onto a trailer when going only a short distance to a designated area and suggested they be permitted to use alleys or designated through streets to reach these areas.

George Matt, 1323 Minnesota Ave., read a list of rules he proposed to control speed and generally promote safety and asked the commission to designate areas where snowmobilers could travel safely.

Paul Verhamme, 709 Delta Ave., said snowmobiling is becoming a lucrative business and that Gladstone should attempt to draw this trade into the area rather than discourage it.

Up To Parents
Howard Keeton, attending his first meeting as city manager, told the group that it would be up to parents to govern the age when their children could safely operate a machine as it is impossible to enforce an age restriction in such an ordinance.

Don DeKeyser, 1226 Minneapolis Ave., said the Probate Court does not have adequate facilities to prosecute juveniles offenders and a considerable discussion followed on the responsibility of parents for their children's actions. The city attorney said parents only are responsible for their children's actions if they, as parents, are grossly negligent in permitting a juvenile to operate a machine.

Walk Machines.
Mrs. George Maniaci, 1224 Wisconsin Ave., told the commission she believes the commission could take a more cooperative attitude and instead of saying "No, No" to all suggestions, that an acceptable agreement be worked out. She suggested permitting snowmobilers to walk their machines to a designated area when it only involves a short distance to travel.

Commissioner Douglas Bovin said he has considered this angle and thinks it has merit, while several people said this cannot be done safely. Bovin said he owns a machine and said he knows it can be safely walked at speeds as slow as two to five miles per hour.

Connie Verhamme, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Verhamme, said it was obvious that the Commission had made up its minds to adopt the proposed ordinance and suggested that a small, representative group discuss their differences to the commission to better advantage.

Safety First
Mayor Anderson said everyone is concerned with the problem of safety and that the possibility of permitting dismounted machines to cross streets or to reach designated areas and to control speeds are in the best interests of all concerned. He said it was unfortunate that the people who complained about the snowmobiles were not present to present their objections.

Commissioner George Young defended the Commission's action on the proposed ordinance, and said it is up to the parents to control their children. He said he knows machines are operated by children or juveniles in alleyways at high rates of speed.

Mayor Anderson said he thought the suggestion of a committee to work with the commission is good and he suggested George Matt serve as chairman of a committee of six

Mrs. Meshigaud Dies Monday At Nursing Home

Mrs. Pauline Meshigaud, 61, of Harris died late Monday evening at the Roubal Nursing Home in Daggett after a lengthy illness. She was born June 14, 1908 in Harris and had lived there most of her life.

She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Marcella Bursa and a brother, Joe Sagataw, of Harris.

Series Of Meetings For Beef Producers

Joseph Heirman, Delta County extension director, announced today that a series of meetings for beef farmers who operate in the Central Upper Peninsula will begin Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. at the Rapid River School.

"I'd like to make it clear that these meetings are open to the public. There's no registration or fees connected with the meetings," Heirman said.

Heirman said he hoped anyone interested in the beef enterprise would attend as many sessions as possible because it might be another two or three years before a similar series could be presented again.

"Beef cattle are on the increase in this area," Heirman said. "There are a lot of 'tricks of the trade' that area beef farmers should learn in order to get the highest returns on their investment," he added.

He urged all beef producers who couldn't attend all five sessions to have their neighbor pick up the printed material from the session they might miss.

U.P. Ore Shipments Near 14 Million Tons

Nearly 14 million tons of iron ore, representing an increase of approximately 11 per cent, were shipped from the Upper Peninsula port cities of Marquette and Escanaba during the 1969 navigation season.

The actual volume of 13,516,442 tons, up from 12,556,988 tons loaded into carriers in 1968, was one of the largest totals of iron ore ever moved from U. P. in a single year. Most of the 1969 cargoes were made up of pelletized ore.

Of the total, 6,899,568 tons was loaded at Escanaba, a record for that Lake Michigan port. Marquette's shipments of 7,016,874 tons—including 5,908,557 at the Lake Superior & Ishpeming dock and 1,108,317 at the Soo Line dock — represented the third seven-million-ton year for this Lake Superior port.

In December, 679,556 tons were loaded at Escanaba and 204,683 tons at Marquette. Both totals were well above December shipping volumes of a year ago.

The Upper Peninsula shipments amounted to nearly 20 per cent of the 70,253,838 tons of ore produced in the Lake Superior district and loaded at American ports in 1969. Another 6,092,632 tons were shipped from Canadian ports, bringing the year's total to 76,346,470.

Last year's shipments amounted to 67,866,824 tons.

Shipments from U.S. ports on Lake Superior, other than Marquette, included: Superior, 14,873,615 tons; Duluth, 15,838,402 tons; Two Harbors, 4,801,767; Silver Bay, 10,649,188; Taconite Harbor, 10,174,424.

Minor Mishaps Blamed On Bad Road Condition

Bad driving conditions caused three minor accidents in the city Monday, Public Safety officers report.

Henry Joseph Baker, 69, 703 Garden Ave., was cited for failure to yield right-of-way after his automobile pulled in front of a car driven by Harry Durmo, 62, Intake Park Road, at 9:45 Monday morning. Officers said the mishap occurred at the intersection of Caribou and Fifth Sts.

At 11 a.m. Monday a car driven by Randy Tallman, 18, Rte. 1, struck a moving Soo Line train at the Deer St. crossing. The train was switching at the time and Tallman told officers he was unable to stop.

A car driven by Golden Brock, 63, Rte. 1, backing out of a private driveway on Lake St., struck an automobile driven by Dennis M. Beaudre, 19, 305 N. Cedar St., at 12:41 Monday afternoon.

Officers also report a car driven by Sandra K. Jenerou, 19, 525 Arborus Ave., skidded into a school bus on Cattaraugus St. at 2:15 Friday afternoon. The bus carried 21 elementary pupils and was driven by John W. Stapleton of the Manistique Area Schools. No injuries were reported. The Jenerou vehicle sustained some damage to its left front and side.

Retiring Safety Director Feted

Retired Public Safety Director Roy Anderson was feted at a dinner Saturday night at the Surf. The city hosted the affair to which city department heads, councilmen and members of the Public Safety Department, plus their spouses, were invited.

On behalf of the city, Mayor Leo DeMars presented Anderson with a gold watch recognizing his 33 years as Public Safety Director. Gifts from the Department were presented by newly-appointed Director Joseph McDonough.

Anderson retired Jan. 1. He and his wife, who live at 518 Delta Ave., expect to leave in two weeks for a Florida vacation.

Tony Bennett, Girl Friend Are Parents

NEW YORK (AP) — Singer Tony Bennett and a girl friend, former actress Sandy Grant, have become the parents of a six-pound girl, Miss Grant said today. Bennett was reported by a spokesman as planning to get a quick Mexican divorce so that he and Miss Grant could marry.

Miss Grant, who gave birth to the baby, Joanna, last Friday afternoon, said she couldn't think about details like divorce because she's just concentrating on being a "typical mother."

Miss Grant, previously married and divorced, has no other children. Bennett, whose wife Patricia was suing him for divorce in New Jersey, has two teen-aged sons and was quoted as saying that he had always wanted a girl.

Miss Grant, 29, from Leesville, La., said she and the 43-year-old singer met through mutual friends and have been going together for the past four years.

Bennett has been separated from his wife for six years and her current divorce action is the second she has filed.

On The Sidelines With Mike Utt

The top basketball attraction over the weekend found the Marquette Redmen notching their ninth consecutive victory with a 55-54 triumph over the previously unbeaten Negaunee Miners, but victory wasn't easy for the Redmen. With one minute left to play in the game, Darryl Waara scored to cut Marquette's advantage to two points before tying the game at 53-53 a few seconds later with another long shot. With four seconds remaining Steve Hampton of Marquette sank two free throws, but Negaunee wasn't out of it. With no time left on the clock, Eric Johnson missed a chance to tie the game up when he missed the first of his two free throws and made the second.

Tom Brayak, a senior at Michigan Tech University and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Brayak Sr. of Hyde, scored the Huskies' lone win in a 32-7 wrestling loss to Northern Michigan University last Thursday. Brayak, who wrestles in the 177-pound class, pinned his opponent at the 7:15 mark of their match.

Going into last night's basketball game with St. Norbert, former Escanaba High School basketball star Paul Miller was the fourth leading scorer on the Northern Michigan University team with 108 points in 14 games. All-American Ted Rose leads the squad in the scoring department with 246 points. Other former U. P. players and their point totals are Brian Oumette of Iron Mountain 78, Al Inkala of Wakefield 66, Larry Ruffato of Marquette 6 and Gerry Gerard of L'Anse 3.

Former Menominee High School start Pat Miller was in the starting lineup for the Michigan State Spartans in their basketball game against Northwestern Saturday night and scored three points in the Spartans' 98-93 victory. Miller was slowed down earlier in the season because of his duties as a punter for the Michigan State team, but the 6 foot 3 inch sophomore has come on strong in recent weeks to crack the starting lineup. Miller has played in all of Michigan State's games so far and has scored 79 total points, including a single game high of 14.

Going into last weekend's basketball action, Terry Froberg of Gwinn was leading the Land O' Lakes Conference in three statistical departments, scoring, assists and field goal percentage. After two league games, Froberg had 47 points, nine assists and had made 19 of 32 field goal attempts for 60 per cent. In Friday's game against Stephenson, the Gwinn star tossed in 14 points.

Jim Leonard, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Fish of 322 N. 16th St., is currently working as a commercial photographer in Honolulu, Hawaii, and recently sent some information and a picture taken before the Hula Bowl game. The picture arrived too late for use, but Jim has offered his services to the Press and will send us pictures of anything in Honolulu that may be of interest to sports fans in the Upper Peninsula.

With all the talk about realignment in pro football, a writer in the Sporting News has suggested this setup: Cowboy and Indians Division — Cowboys, Redskins, Chiefs, Colts and Broncos; Blue Collar Division — Oilers, Steelers, Packers, Forty-Niners and Bills; War and Peace Division — Vikings, Giants, Raiders, Patriots and Chargers; Animal Division — Lions, Rams, Bears, Dolphins, Bengals and Browns; Airborne Division — Eagles, Falcons, Jets, Cardinals — and of course the Saints. Oddly enough, the divisions seemed to be fairly divided up.

Unbeaten Bruins Retain Top Spot

By The Associated Press

While the rest of the Top Twenty teams play musical chairs with the numbers game, UCLA continues to wait away with the No. 1 ranking in college basketball.

Rolling along to their one-note victory samba, the Bruins were voted into the top spot again Monday by the Associated Press' nationwide panel of sports writers and sportscasters.

Their image has changed. Lew Alcindor's graceful figure no longer dances near the basket. What's the key to their success?

"We either win by one or 31," says Coach John Wooden, diplomatically leaving unsaid that the Bruins manage to win one way or the other.

But Wooden admits the Bruins' uncanny shooters don't hurt. If they win big or not, "in either case you have to look to our shooting," Wooden said.

Kentucky and South Carolina, the pride of the South, continued to hold onto the second and third spots in the poll. After that, you had to follow the bouncing ball to find out who's where.

St. Bonaventure bounced from fifth to fourth; New Mexico State moved up a place to fifth; Jacksonville stepped up a notch to sixth; North Carolina slipped three spots to seventh; Davidson held onto eighth, and Houston and Marquette moved up several places to ninth and 10th, respectively.

Rounding out the Top Twenty were, North Carolina State; Niagara; Columbia; Ohio; Penn and Washington, who were tied for 15th; Illinois; Louisville; Duke and Southern California.

Norsemen Drop 88-54 Contest To NMU Frosh

MARQUETTE — Bay de Noc Community College's basketball team ran right into the lion's den last night at Northern Michigan University and dropped an 88-54 decision to the NMU Frosh.

The loss was the fourth straight for the Norsemen and left their season record at 1-4.

Bay College was outscored by a 50-29 margin in the first half of play and were only able to come back in the final 20 minutes with 25 points. This was the second time the Norsemen had fallen to the NMU Frosh this season.

Former Gladstone High School star Mark Weber led the Bay College team in the scoring column with 20 points and Steve Fisher, who played at Holy Name High School, tossed in 11 points in the losing cause.

Mike Brumit and Claude White paced the NMU Frosh with 25 and 23 points respectively and Nick Volk chipped in with 14.

As a team, the Norsemen connected on 22 of 72 field goal attempts for 30 per cent, while the NMU quipped made 40 of 87 shots from the field for 46 per cent. NMU outrebounded Bay by a 66-31 margin.

The Norsemen swing back into action this Saturday night at the Gladstone High School gymnasium against Gogebic College. Game time is 7:30.

Eskymo Matmen Dump Crusaders

By MIKE UTT

The Escanaba Eskymos picked up nine victories and lost only three matches in their Great Northern Conference wrestling meet against the Holy Name Crusaders last night at the Holy Name gym and went home with a 39-11 triumph.

The victory was the fourth of the season for Coach Norm Pangani's Eskymo grapplers, giving them a 2-0 mark in the conference standings and putting their overall season record at 4-1 plus a victory in the Delta County Holiday Wrestling Tournament. Holy Name remained winless in five matches.

Duane Scheuren, Dale Ford and Neil VanDresse all managed to keep their unbeaten records for the Eskymos with their seventh straight victories, while Jim DeGrand of Holy Name also picked up his seventh straight triumph to remain as Holy Name's only unbeaten wrestler. All four wrestlers pinned their opponents and for Scheuren, his pin was his seventh straight.

Art Beauvais picked up a victory for Holy Name in the first match of the evening by getting a 5-2 decision over Rich Strophich, but Escanaba then scored 21 straight points on a pin by Mike Brazek, decisions by Jim Larsin and Mike Thompson and two more pins by Ford and Mike Makosky.

Bill Beauvais then got the Crusaders back on the board with a decision before VanDresse added five more points to the Escanaba total with his pin. DeGrand picked up five points for the Crusaders with his pin, but then Terry Scheenmen, Scheuren and Collins won three straight for the Eskymos to give them the victory. Both Scheuren and Collins pinned their opponents.

Five junior varsity matches were held before the main attraction and Escanaba also emerged victorious here, winning by a 10-8 margin.

The night wasn't a total loss for the Crusaders though, as Coach Walt Veldman's freshmen basketball team notched a 67-59 victory over the Escanaba freshman in the preliminary to the wrestling event.

The results:

98—Art Beauvais (HN) dec. Rich Strophich (E) 5-2

107—Mike Blazek (E) pinned Doug Laviolette (HN) 3:36

115—Jim Larsin (E) dec. Allen Beauvais (HN) 10-0

124—Mike Thompson (E) dec. Rod Kohler (HN) 7-4

133—Dale Ford (E) pinned Dave Walker (HN) 1:25

137—Mike Makosky (E) pinned John DeGrand (HN) 5:12

Jeannette Named To Coach Pipers

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The vagabond Pittsburgh Pipers of the American Basketball Association, lodged in fifth place in the Eastern division, have a new coach.

Harry E. "Buddy" Jeannette, former coach and general manager of the Baltimore Bullets of the NBA, was named to the post Monday by owner Gabe Rubin. Jeannette succeeds John Clark, who resigned.

Clark, a former coach at St. Francis College (Loretto, Pa.) was midway in his first year of coaching. He had replaced Jim Harding who headed the team after it moved from Pittsburgh to Minnesota last season.

Jeannette, the Pipers director of operations, will continue in that position and as coach, but he made it clear he considers the coaching job a temporary one.

The Pistons led 27-22 at the end of the first quarter and maintained the lead with a 51-45 margin at the half.

Four Pistons finished with 20 points or better. Dave Bing had 22, Mueller had 21 and Otto Moore and Jimmy Walker got 20 apiece. Game high scorer was Hawk Bill Bridges with 23 points.

Moore led all rebounders with 19 grabs.

Mueller Saves Piston Victory Over Atlanta

By The Associated Press

When the Atlanta Hawks started to trim away a third period 82-70 Detroit lead Monday night, Piston Erwin Mueller cranked up 13 points in the final five minutes for the 113-100 National Basketball Association victory.

Detroit took a 16-point lead of 96-80 with five minutes remaining as the Hawks went into a full court press that eventually trimmed the lead to six points 106-100, with one minute remaining.

Mueller had collected only eight points in the night's play before he started his rampage on the Hawk cage.

In other NBA action Monday night, Chicago downed Philadelphia 117-113, and New York stomped Phoenix 130-114.

Mueller protected the advantage with a layup and a three point play in the final seconds of the Detroit-Atlanta game.

Northern Upends St. Norbert Five

MARQUETTE (AP) — The Northern Michigan Wildcats downed the St. Norbert Green Knights 98-86 in non-conference basketball Monday night.

Northern led from the opening buzzer but St. Norbert pulled to within two points at 70-68 with ten minutes left in the game. Halftime score was Northern Michigan 49, St. Norbert 35.

High-point honors were shared by Wildcat forward Ted Rose and Green Knight forward Jack Gebier, both with 24.

For the season, the Wildcats are now 6-9 and the Green Knights are 6-3.

Eskymos Host Crusaders In Cage Feature Tonight

By MIKE UTT

Who will emerge victorious — a high scoring offensive unit or a stingy defensive squad? Does playing on your own floor mean anything in a game involving two teams from the same city?

Answers to these questions may be given tonight at the Escanaba Area High School gymnasium when the Escanaba Eskymos play host to the Holy Name Crusaders in a Great Northern Conference contest beginning at 8:15.

Other games involving area teams tonight will find the Powers-Spalding trying to extend their eight-game winning streak against Felch at home, Trenary at Rapid River in a Central League test, Carney hoping to keep pace in the Skyline Conference at Hermansville and Rock at Pembine, Wis., in a non-conference clash.

Team Records

Escanaba will take a 3-4 record into their game against Holy Name, which has a 5-1 mark. The Crusaders are currently leading the Great Northern Conference with a 2-0 mark, while Escanaba is in third place with a 1-1 record.

In seven appearances this season, Escanaba has scored 536 points for an average of 76.6 points per game, while they have allowed their opponents to score 511 points for an average of 73 points per game.

Holy Name, on the other hand, has given up only 313 points in its six games for an astounding 52.2 points per game average, while scoring 407 points for an average of 67.8.

Holy Name has two players averaging over 10 points a game in Dan Young and sophomore Bill Skradski. Young leads the team with 109 points for an average of 18.2 points per game and Skradski has ripped the nets at a 16.8 point per game clip with 101 total points.

Skradski also has the best individual performance for the Crusaders this season, canning 28 points against Munising.

High Scorers

Tom Kangas, a 6 foot 4 inch junior, will lead four Escanaba players averaging over ten points per game into the contest. Kangas has tossed in 161 points for an average of 23 points per game and he also has the best individual performance on the Escanaba team, hitting 35 points against the Soo. Other top scorers for the Eskymos are Bob Gauthier (13.5), Mike Cousineau (12-0) and Gene Timmer (10.2).

Coaches Gordy LeDuc of Holy Name and Bob Thibault of Escanaba will probably use the same lineups which have been playing in recent games.

LeDuc's starters include Skradski and Bob McGinn at guards, Dan Young and Steve Kleiman at forwards and 6 foot 5 inch Joe Harvey at center. Thibault has been going with Gauthier and Cousineau at guards, Bill Dubord and Timmer at the forwards and Kangas at center.

The Powers-Spalding Tigers should have an easy time with Felch in their game tonight. The Tigers have an 8-0 record in Skyline Conference play, while the Foresters are 1-6.

Powerful Offense

The high-scoring Tigers, who have scored 622 points in posting their eight victories this season, have three players averaging over 10 points a game, including the leading scorer in the Escanaba area, Dick Smith, who has scored 239 points and has never scored below 22 points in any game this season. The other high scorers are Kim Riedy (21.1) and Lee Vincent (11.0).

Carney has only one loss in Skyline Conference play, to Powers, and they need a victory at Hermansville tonight to remain in the race. Carney's attack centers around 6 foot 5 inch Ed Benson and high scoring John Perras. Perras has scored 138 points in six games and Benson has tossed in 112.

Hermansville will be trying to snap a five-game losing streak and improve its 1-8 season

mark, John Dani is the Redskinning main hope for victory, as he has scored 149 points in nine outings.

Rapid River will try to get back on the winning track after losing three straight against Trenary. The Rockets have been playing without the services of Dale Morin, who was the team's leading scorer before being injured in the Central League Holiday Tournament.

Rapid River has an overall record of six victories and four defeats on the season.

Sky-High

Trenary is sky-high after winning the Central League Holiday Tournament and will try to improve its 4-5 season mark. Junior Dave Marlin, who has tossed in 128 points, and Don Sandstrom who has scored 100 points, are the Comets' main scoring threats.

Rock takes an overall 3-7 record on the road with them for a non-conference test against the Pembine Panthers. Rock has had trouble putting together a consistent scoring attack in its games thus far and Coach Ken Dean may try to solve that problem tonight.

Other games involving U. P. teams tonight will find Calumet at L'Anse, Negaunee at Gwinn, Iron Mountain at Kingsford, Ewen-Trout Creek at Wakefield, Houghton at Ontonagon, Bergland at Watersmeet, Channing at Champion, Dollar Bay at Chassell, Eben at National Mine, Ironwood Catholic at Butternut, Wis., Mercer, Wis., at White Pine, Painesdale at Lake Linden and Meilen, Wis., at Arenisco.

Gamecocks with 18 points. SC solved Virginia's slow-down tactics quickly and won easily, taking advantage of its over-all height advantage to dominate the boards.

Kentucky had a tougher time against Georgia. The Wildcats needed seven points in the last four minutes by Mike Pratt to hold off the Bulldogs. Pratt, who hails from that famous citadel of the South, Dayton, Ohio, dropped in the decisive free throw with six seconds left.

The Wildcats, now 12-0, got 32 points from Dan Issel, the nation's No. 3 scorer, who comes from another northern outpost, Batavia, Ill.

Lanny Taylor led Georgia with 25 points and Bob Lienhad added 17 for Georgia, now 5-6. The loss was the first in Southeastern Conference play for the Bulldogs and it enabled Kentucky, now 4-0 in the SEC, to take over the conference lead.

Elsewhere major teams were off with exams beginning to occupy the athletes. Some schools were still in action though.

In the East, Harvard topped MIT 77-70. Bucknell topped Delaware 83-81 and Rhode Island took Vermont 78-66; In the South, Auburn whipped Alabama 86-77, Maryland defeated Clemson 75-68, and Florida edged Tennessee 57-56 in overtime.

In the Midwest, Creighton whipped Colorado 65-60, Idaho State topped Idaho 79-75; In the Southwest, Rice beat Tulane 83-80, Oklahoma topped Missouri 52-48 and Xavier, Ohio downed Texas Christian 80-76, and in the Far West, Weber State ran over Gonzaga 120-72, California routed Washington 84-64, Seattle topped Denver 70-57 and Washington State trimmed Stanford 72-62.

Yankees Helping Southern Quints

By The Associated Press

The Rebel Railroad that imports basketball talent from North to South, stops at Lexington, Ky., too.

Yankee transplants, popularized first at North Carolina and now at South Carolina by Coach Frank McGuire, are paying handsome dividends for Kentucky this season.

Both South Carolina, ranked third in The Associated Press' poll, and Kentucky, the No. 2 team, scored victories Monday night in a slimed-down schedule of college basketball with many teams occupied by final exams.

SC walloped Virginia 63-42 while Kentucky had a shakier time, just getting past fired-up Georgia 72-71. In both games, Dixie imports played important roles.

Tom Owens, one of nine South Carolina players from the New York metropolitan area, led the

Red Wings Trip Hamilton Squad

HAMILTON, Ont. (AP)—Five Detroit Red Wings scored goals as they defeated the Hamilton Red Wings, 5-3, in an exhibition hockey game Monday night.

Scoring for Detroit were Gordie Howe, Pete Stenkowski, Alex Delvecchio, Gary Bergman and Wayne Connolly.

Ray Ryan, Ed Gilbert, and Ron LeBlanc scored for Hamilton, a junior team in the amateur Ontario Hockey Association.

In a preliminary game before the 4,313 fans, the Olympia Agencies squad humbled the Hamilton B team, 6-0. In the game, Gordie Howe's 14-year-old son, Mark had a goal and an assist.

Bands 'Feel' Music, Money

By SHARON HILTON

You're not supposed to just listen to music these days. You're supposed to feel it.

And at least five young Escanaba rock groups are "feeling it" to the tune of thousands of dollars a year.

The music business, locally, is largely under the direction of Gene Smilneck of Escanaba, manager of Bands Unlimited, who serves as agent for the local groups.

If the music is deafening to adults, it's beautiful to the youngsters who dance to the heavy guitar, bass and drum beats at school dances, local halls and at private parties dozens of times throughout the year.

"They like to feel their music," said Smilneck. "If you were to stand in front of a loudspeaker and turn the volume up you could actually feel the vibrations from the music."

The lower pitches are what give you this sense of "feeling" the music, he explained, and only since the beginning of rock-and-roll have technical advances in recording made this possible. Previously, only the higher pitches could be recorded.

Full-Time Job

Managing these bands is a full time job for Smilneck and he works at it about 12 hours a day, seven days a week. Many people don't realize just how much money and work goes into these bands, he said.

"In 1969, groups affiliated with Bands Unlimited took in $150,000," Smilneck said. The local groups have anywhere from $6,100 to $12,000 in equipment, with each member paying for his own instruments. In addition to this they have to pay for transportation and uniforms.

All five of the local bands, "The Porridge," "The Prophets of Doom," "The Riot Squad," "Upstairs to the Left," and "The Chocklit Ashkan," generally play every Friday and Saturday night and sometimes during the week. They average from $125 to $200 a night as a group.

Until recently these bands played only in the Upper Peninsula. Now they also travel in to Lower Michigan and parts of Wisconsin. Two of the groups have performed in Canada.

Long On Experience

Many of the members have been in other bands and have a great deal of experience in music. But only two members, Larry Brown and Dave Watchorn of "The Prophets of Doom," have thought of making music a career.

Members of "The Chocklit Ashkan" were undecided and they said that it all depends on what becomes of their group.

About three-fourths of the band members can read music and about one-fourth of them have taken some type of music lessons. Dave Watchorn put it this way, "music should be heard, not read." However, many of the band members are now taking guitar lessons from Gene Smilneck.

"The Porridge" has been in existence since Oct. 1, 1969. Brendan Williams is their leader and has been playing guitar for about 6 1/2 years. Other members are Mitchell Jensen, bass, 2 years; Tom McGovern, guitar, 2 years; Dale Stannard, organ, 2 years; and Dan Curran, drums, 4 years.

They like to specialize on their instruments and describe the type of music they play as "schmaltz." When asked whether or not he felt their band was making any progress, Brendan Williams replied, "Don't ask us if we sound good, just come and see."

"Prophets" Organized

"The Prophets of Doom" were first organized about three years ago, but since then they have had many changes in membership. Present members are Larry Olivares, leader, who has been playing guitar for about 5 years and also plays bass and piano; Dave Watchorn, who has been playing for 5 years, plays guitar, organ, bass and harmonica; Jay Olivares who has been playing drums for 5 years; and Larry Brown, who has been playing for 9 years, plays guitar and harmonica.

The "Prophets" have made one recording and plan on making more in March. They play almost any type of music: jazz, heavy, popular.

"It takes a lot more effort to make a great band than any band in this area is putting forth," insisted Greg Curran, leader of "The Riot Squad."

Greg has been playing for 4 years and he plays bass, drums and organ. Other members of the group include Greg Tolman, 6 years, trumpet, guitar, and bass; Fred Bingham, 6 years, trumpet and guitar; Lorene Zeno, the only girl in any local group, 8 years, organ; Bob Derouin, 4 years, saxophone, drums, guitar and bass; Matt Gagnis, 8 years, guitar, organ and drums; and Greg Swank who is their M.C.

Writes Own Music

Curran has written four songs, but as yet none have been recorded. "The Riot Squad" plays the "Top 40."

"Upstairs to the Left" was organized about nine months ago and members include Dick Peterson, leader, who plays organ, bass and guitar and has been playing for about 4 years; Kim Erickson, 2 years, organ, bass, and guitar; Dennis Combs, 6 years, drums; and Dave Berndt, 1 1/2 years, bass.

They play all types of music, but mainly the "Top 40." As a group they have written two songs, but neither has been recorded.

Newest Band

The leader of "The Chocklit Ashkan" is Dan McDonald, who has been playing guitar for 2 years. Other members of the group are Jim Shomin, 1 year, bass; Mike Buckley, 2 months, organ; and Duane Slagstad, 5 years, drums. "The Chocklit Ashkan" is the newest member of Bands Unlimited and has the youngest members of any group. The type of music they play is the "Top 40."

Small town audiences sometimes react differently to a band than larger ones.

"Generally, the small towns seem more receptive than the larger ones," suggested Larry Olivares. "It seems like the larger towns are more snobbish and it takes them a while before they decide whether or not they are going to like you."

Dick Peterson said, "the smaller towns are easiest to play for." All of the bands agreed that basically, the smaller towns are more friendly, but they would rather play for the larger towns where the money is.

These bands have done a great job in providing entertainment for teen dances and various other activities where they play.

However, some credit should be given to the other people, such as the light men and boys who carry the equipment into and out of the dances for making it all possible.

Like football, making music is a team job.

Each astronaut would be supplied with 1,800 meals on the 251-day round trip to Mars envisioned in the 1980's, National Geographic says.

Distribution Of Surplus Food Set

Surplus food distribution will be held on two days this month, the Department of Social Services has announced. The Distribution Center is located in the former Mobil Service Station on River St., next to the Knights of Columbus Hall.

West county residents - city residents, plus township residents of Thompson, Hiawatha and Inwood - will be served on Monday, Jan. 19. East county residents - city eastside, plus Manistique, Doyle, Germfask, Seney and Mueller townships - will be served on Tuesday, Jan. 20. The center will be open from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. both days.

The "Prophets" have made one recording and plan on making more in March. They play almost any type of music: jazz, heavy, popular.

"It takes a lot more effort to make a great band than any band in this area is putting forth," insisted Greg Curran, leader of "The Riot Squad."

Last Of Lake Vessels Nearing Mooring Sites

DETROIT (AP) — Stout winds in Lake Superior daub layers of ice on the 102-foot Stannard Rock Lighthouse, which is dark for the winter.

Freighters no longer sound their foghorn wails to signal their entrance into the Sault Ste. Marie locks for cargoes of steel ore and grain.

The shipping season on the Great Lakes is ended, dormant until spring.

Two freighters from the U.S. Steel Corp. fleet, the Clarke and Olds, were scheduled to dock at Lorain, Ohio today, completing the last haul of the season on the Great Lakes, the world's largest inland waterway.

The ships are moored for the winter at ports along the 8,300-mile coastline that stretches from the Atlantic Ocean on the east to Duluth, Minn., on the west.

Winter is the time for man and machine to rest and repair. Most mariners have gone to their homes and families on land, but a few remain aboard the vessels as shipkeepers. Some boats have moved into shipyards to repair weathered hulls.

Several wintertime schools also are held to train the seamen for higher ratings.

The Great Lakes boats and their cousins from foreign ports — "the salties" — hauled an estimated 190,950,000 tons of bulk cargo this season. This is below the record of 196,206,230 net tons in 1957. Officials considered the season closed Sunday when the two lake freighters — their ice coating looking like sugar candy — passed through the locks at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., which connect Lake Superior to the lower lakes. Last year, the locks closed Jan. 4.

The ocean ships that enter the St. Lawrence Seaway, which completed its 10th year in operation carry only a minor part of the Great Lakes cargo. Most is hauled from one Great Lakes port to another, mainly to support the nation's steel industry. Iron ore from lands surrounding Lake Superior, limestone from the shores abutting Lake Michigan, and coal from ports along Lake Erie are the main ingredients in making steel.

The shipping season, begun last April 1 when the Sault locks opened, was the longest in history, made possible by U.S. Coast Guard ice-breakers. The previous record season was last year.

However, the ice has become so thick at points that passage now is not practically possible, even with the icebreaker's help.

Capt. Otto F. Unsinn, commanding officer of the U.S. Coast Guard icebreaker Mackinaw, said Monday that ice-breaking was a "tedious process requiring a great deal of finesse" and he joked, plenty of antiacid tablets.

Commodore Warren W. Waggett, Coast Guard commander in the Detroit district, said the future of a 12-month season on the Great Lakes "is not rosy."

He said thick snow-covered ice early in the year, especially in February and March, is extremely difficult to break up.

The executive officer of the Mackinaw Cmdr. Lawrence J. Otto, said that although the ice-breaking operation seemed to benefit only a limited group "it benefits the segment of the economy that this country runs on, the steel industry."

DETROIT (AP) — A couple united in a biracial marriage plans to move into a Romulus Township apartment this week-end after getting an assist from the Michigan Civil Rights Commission.

"I don't expect the neighbors to be real friendly right away," said Marlys Montgomery, 24, who is white.

"They're going to show us a lot of animosity, girl," said her husband, 25-year-old Alonzo Montgomery, who is black.

They appealed to the Michigan Civil Rights Commission, saying a landlord, Wallace W. Williams of Wayne, took their money for rent, but then tried to return it when he found out Montgomery was black.

The commission said its investigation showed that the refusal and a lockout which followed when the door lock was changed, were "because of the racial character of the tenants."

Then, the Wayne County Circuit Court issued an order to prohibit Williams from renting the apartment to anyone else.

In Memoriam

Makie

In loving memory of Toivo Matt Makie who went to his eternal rest January 13, 1968, two years ago today.

We often look at your photo. You seem to smile and say "Don't weep, I am only sleeping. And we will meet again some day. God saw the road was getting rough. And the hills were hard to climb. He gently closed your weary eyes. And whispered Peace Be Thine. A beautiful life that came to an end. He died as he lived — everyone's friend. Years roll on and time passes by. But loving memories never die.

Robison Slaying Arrest Nearing

PETOSKEY (AP) — Emmet County Prosecutor Donald C. Noggle said he would confer again with State Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley before making a decision this week on whether to ask for an arrest warrant in the slaying of the Richard C. Robison family.

Noggle said "I will try my utmost" to have an official decision by Wednesday" but noted that several "gray areas" in a 300-page State Police report requires further study.

Noggle and Kelley conferred for about 1½ hours about the case Monday. After the meeting Kelley released a short statement saying Noggle would state his position "in the next few days."

All the victims of the slaying—Robison, his wife Shirley and his three sons and daughter—were shot to death with a 22-caliber weapon in their cottage near Good Hart in July 1968. Each victim also had been shot once in the head with a 25-caliber weapon. The family was from the Detroit suburb of Lathrop Village.

IT TAKES TWO TO TANGO — Tricia Nixon, daughter of the President and First Lady, and her steady beau, Edward Finch Cox, arrive at the Waldorf-Astoria in New York City, where they tangoed into the early hours at the 15th annual International Debutante Ball. She was junior chairman. Cox, 23, is a first-year student at Harvard Law School.

Pollution Target Of Senator's Talk

EAST LANSING (AP)—Man is doomed unless he stops polluting the world, Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., told a packed auditorium of Michigan State University students Monday night in East Lansing.

"Man is doomed," he said, "unless he develops a concern and interest and an emotional and financial commitment to meeting the problems of environment that equals our previous commitments to weapons and space, neither of which is so vital as our environment."

Nelson was keynote speaker in a university college symposium entitled, "Man the Endangered Species."

Nelson said unless something is done, man will run out of metal in the next half century or 75 years, which would mean the collapse of the technological age.

"In the past 30 years we have polluted every water shed east of the Mississippi and are now starting on those west of the Mississippi," Nelson said.

"We've destroyed Lake Erie and are now beginning the destruction of Lake Superior," he said.

Nelson called Lake Superior a classic example of what we call progress or "profit, to spell it differently" and indicated the Reserve Mineral Company which has been dumping mineral wastes into Lake Superior north of Duluth, Minn., at the rate of 60,000 tons every 24 hours.

"If people are prepared to accept this they must also be prepared to accept the depredation that goes along with it," Nelson said.
